

Thomas Bättig becomes new CFO at RAIpin AG

Thomas Bättig, a trained business economist with a broad knowledge of the railway world, will head the finances and associated service providers of RAIpin AG from 15 June 2020. He succeeds Hans-Peter Röthlisberger, who is moving to the aviation industry after a good two years in the business.

The new CFO of RAIpin is Thomas Bättig. After completing his apprenticeship as a railway operations controller at SBB and then taking his Matura, the 45-year-old successfully completed his training as a business economist at the University of Applied Sciences.

During nine years in various positions at SBB, he acquired broad specialist knowledge of the world of railways and was, among other things, Head of Controlling at SBB Cargo Italia and Production at SBB Cargo. He then moved to Swiss Post International as Head of Group Controlling/Deputy CFO, where he was responsible for all financial and controlling processes. He was also CFO of the LINK Group for several years and most recently Director Corporate Controlling at the Pilatus Aircraft Group.

Mr. Bättig thus brings extremely valuable skills and experience to the management team. For RAIpin, this represents a high added value for mastering the major challenges facing the Rolling Highway.

The current CFO, Hans-Peter Röthlisberger, is leaving the company at the end of June at his own request and is moving to the aviation industry. With his work over the last two years, he has made a significant contribution to the professionalization and automation of financial processes.

We are delighted about the competent reinforcement of RAIpin, extend a warm welcome to Mr. Bättig and wish him much pleasure and success in his exciting new task.
